RARE FLOWERS IN THE PARK.

Easter Exhibit Includes Some Specimens From Far Away Australia.

The annual Easter flower show at the Central Park Conservatory will be opened to the public this morning. For the last ten days the buildings have been closed while Head Gardener Olsson and his assistants prepared for the display. Yesterday invited guests were admitted.

The north house, devoted mainly to flowers, contains the chief Easter exhibit. The centre mound under the high dome shows a bank of Easter lilies against a background of camelias and New Holland plants. The corners of the rectangular mound are occupied by purple azaleas, while azaleas of buff and yellow extend along the sides. With these are cherry and apple blossoms. High up above the camelias tree ferns from New Zealand extend their fronds. Two curious plants in the mound are the monkey puzzle, also from New Zealand, and the bottle brush. The first is named because of its sharp spines which project in every direction. The bottle brush looks very much like a red lamp chimney cleaner.

The flowers on the side shelves of the building include the double flowered English hawthorn, old fashioned primroses, gentians with their delicate yellow flowers, and anacards. Then there are flowering bulbs, hyacinths, narcissuses and tulips in various colors. A new variety daisy is the Queen Alexandra.

Between the flower house and the palm exhibit comes a room devoted to stove plants. Here are pitcher plants, sensitive plants and pineapples.

The main palm house, with its temperature of 70 degrees and its many tropical plants, has a strong West Indian flavor. Mr. Olsson points with pride to a royal palm in seed and flower, to a coffee tree with its buds and its pods containing the beans, to cotton plants in bloom, and finally to a large banana tree with its hanging fruit.

Those interested in orchids will go direct to the fern house. Here are rare yellow tulip orchids, lady slipper orchids, and dendrobiums in yellow and purple. Several specimens of staghorn ferns hang on the walls of this building. These plants in general appearance strongly resemble the hunting trophies from which they derive their name.

The pink rose of Killarney attracts attention in the south building devoted to roses and hydrangeas. The bougainvillea, also shown here, looks much prettier than it sounds. It has a small purple blossom with yellow stamens.

Mr. Olsson said yesterday that this is the best exhibit yet given in the conservatory.

"It is the seventh Easter opening," he said. "We hope to improve the displays each year."

NEW MACKEREL, NEW MACKEREL.

Big Schooner Comes Flying in Wing and Wing, to Find Others Ahead of Her.

The fishing schooner Natalie B. Nickerson came up the coast yesterday with a smashing breeze astern, her mainsail swung to port and her foresail out to starboard. She was fresh from the mackerel fishing grounds, with 21,000 mackerel in her well, and she hoped to get in with the first of the season's catch.

She made a brave run of it, and for three leagues led the tug Sterling which was trying to get her tow line. Inside the Hook she hoisted to, gave the tug a chance to catch up, and came on up the bay.

But at Fulton Market pier she found two other boats that had got in a few hours ahead of her. The Nickerson had been off Hatteras with the fishing fleet, but the Claudia and the Saladin had been anchored further north and got in early yesterday morning. Capt. Seavey felt better, however, when he learned that the Saladin usually the first had also been beaten by the Claudia and that Flor McKown's colors had been lowered by Capt. Seavey's Madson. The Nickerson was not the first of the Gloucesters, but she was the first of the fleet from Maine.

GASHED DOG WITH KNIFE.

Negro Who Sided Too Much With His Setter Held in $1,000 Bond.

When Arthur De Veaux, a negro, of 458 Seventh avenue, was arraigned in the West Side court yesterday charged with felonious assault Magistrate Barlow asked for the complainant.

"Here he is," said the bridge policeman, raising a struggling white bulldog to the judge's desk. The dog had a twelve inch gash across his back.

Arthur Van, a clog dancer, of 263 West Twenty-fourth street, owner of the dog, said that he was walking down Seventh avenue at Thirty-fourth street on Friday night when the negro passed, leading a bulldog. The dog was barking and growling. The negro pulled his pocket knife, Van said, and attacked the bulldog. The animal had been gashed once before his owner could prevent it. The negro was held in $1,000 bonds for an examination to-morrow.

Sit Machine Crusade.

Inspector Schmittberger sent out detectives on Friday night to sleuth for slot machines. Two saloon keepers and a billiard room owner were arraigned in the West Side court yesterday for operating them. They all waived examination and were held in $500 bail for trial. Edward Curran of the Pequet Club at Twenty-seventh street and Eighth avenue, formerly the headquarters of John C. Sheehan, was one of them.

PATRICIAN
Shoe for Women

Easter Exhibit

cut of the many words of praise we have received for the new Patrician shoe, we select this pretty little compliment:

A PRETTY GIRL
A PRINCESS GOWN
A "PATRICIAN" SHOE

THE TRINITY OF PERFECTION

"This shoe too strong, for never was there a woman whose shoes were so extravagantly beautiful as right now."

chief among them the new "Patrician" shoes for Easter.

And 'tis not in beauty and grace alone that they excel all other shoes, for under the closest examination of such critical points as the sole, the heel, the arch, the material the finish, the wearing qualities, the new Patrician models leave nothing wanting.

The Dainty Kid Oxfords
The Girlish Gun Metal Pumps
The Dozens of Patent Leather Models

offer a choice unequalled, a delightful variety to suit the most fastidious shoe connoisseur.

No shoes cost so much to build as "Patrician" models.

The shoe to buy.

PURSUED BY HIS CRIME.

Wanderer Wants to Be Sent Back to Colorado for Alleged Swindle.

A man whose general appearance indicated hard luck walked into Police Headquarters yesterday and said he wanted to surrender for a mischief he committed five years ago in Goldfield, Cal. He said he was Jacob Posner and that he formerly kept a store in Goldfield, but the notion came to him to make a little money faster than by the usual business methods. He got $4,000 worth of goods from the McClellan Dry Goods Company and from the Griffin Shoe Company, and sold out for $1,000 and quickly left town.

Thinking the authorities would get after him he went to Mexico, and fearing arrest even there, kept moving from place to place. He came back to Texas to escape the imaginary officers, but the idea of arrest haunted him by day and night and he kept on the move from State to State.

"I'm tired of the load I am carrying on my mind and the sight of a policeman gives me the shivers. I want to give myself up and have it over," he said to Detective Sergeant Dunn.

"I'll find out if they really want you. Perhaps they've forgotten all about you out there," said the detective.

He sent a telegram of inquiry to the Goldfield authorities and gave the visitor a temporary home in a cell.

This detatch was received last night from Chief of Police M. I. Delaney of Denver.

The McClellan Dry Goods Company and the C. D. Griffin Shoe Company will not prosecute Posner. Release him so far as we are concerned.

Pettit's Hotel in Jamaica Sold.

Pettit's Hotel, one of the many headquarters of Washington, was sold yesterday at auction. It is in Jamaica, L. I. The owner some time ago decided to have the land divided into lots and sold by auction. The sale yesterday included the old building and twenty lots. The aggregate amount received for the property was $17,500. The building was sold for $25,000. This will be torn down to make room for a modern office building.

BUSY WOMEN FOOTPADS.

Operating on Broadway, Police Say—Knocked Down and Locked Up.

Two neatly dressed women who gave fictitious names and addresses were arraigned in the West Side court yesterday on suspicion of holding up a man on Broadway early yesterday morning and robbing him of $40. They were held in $500 bail until to-morrow to allow the police to procure evidence.

Detective Boyle of the West Forty-seventh street station house told the court that many complaints of women footpads along the dark sections of upper Broadway have been received lately. When a man who would not give his name rushed into the station house yesterday morning and reported the $40 loss at the hands of two women, Boyle and Fitzpatrick hurried out on the trail.

They got to Fifty-fifth street just in time, they said, to see a man pushed into the shadow of a building by two women. Then they saw the man's fists shoot out, and the women rolled into the street. While they were being arrested the man with the fists fled.

The detectives said that the prisoners answered the description of the women concerned in the $40 holdup.

RILEY GRANNAN IN COURT.

Up on Warrant Issued Last October for Alleged Non-Support of Wife.

Riley Grannan, the race-track plunger, was in the West Side court yesterday charged by his wife with non-support. He went to court with his lawyer, Dan O'Kelly, who informed him at Remington on Friday that a warrant had been re-issuing in the West Side court since last October which the court officers would like to serve on him. It was secured the day after he left for New Orleans.

Grannan said that he was willing to pay his wife $10 a week. Magistrate Barlow put the case off until Tuesday to allow Mrs. Grannan to appear.
